MORGENTHAU IN PARIS

PARIS, July 23 (INS)—Henry Morgenthau, Jr., American secretary of the treasury, was due in Paris with his family today for a vacation. He will confer with President Albert Lebrun, Finance Minister Paul Marchandeau and other officials.

THE WEATHER

(OFFICIAL)
Unsettled with showers today, tonight and probably tomorrow.
(UNOFFICIAL)
Disgusting.

Storm loss running into millions of dollars was reported throughout New England today, as more rain was predicted for tonight and tomorrow forenoon.

Wet weather damage to Massachusetts farm crops was estimated at more than $1,000,000.

From Connecticut came announcement that tobacco crop loss there would total at least $1,000,000.

At the same time, federal authorities in Boston issued a warning to the public against eating uncooked or unsterilized fruit or vegetables.

Slashed Boy, 3 Others Die

MENDON, July 23—Robert Miles, seven, died at Milford Hospital today, without having been able to tell police details of how his mother, in an apparent fit of insanity, fatally slashed him and two other children, then committed suicide.

The mother, Mrs. Anna Miles, 30, died instantly, as did Robert's two sisters, Jean, four, and Dorothy, five.

Throats of all four victims were slashed with a razor. Little Robert, who probably tried to defend himself, lived for 12 hours, but was unable to speak.

CHILDREN DISCOVER CRIME

The tragedy was discovered when three playmates of the Miles children could get no answer to their repeated knocks on the back door. Looking in the bathroom window, the children saw the bodies of Mrs. Miles and the two daughters on the floor.

Terrified, they ran screaming to

Hercules Burglars Take 500-Lb. Safe

A 500-pound safe, containing stamps, postal money orders, and cash, was stolen from a Washington street, Somerville, drug store today by burglars who entered the building through a skylight. The store, owned by John Scannell, is also a sub-postal station.

A bulletin, signed by G. Harold Noyes, chief U. S. meteorologist here, said:

"Long continued moisture, high humidity and somewhat high temperatures have greatly favored propagation of many forms of micro-organisms, bacteria, fungi, putrefactions, etc.

"Use of thoroughly sterilized foods may prevent incidence of illnesses, digestive, infantile, etc.

"It might be well to cook all foods and omit, for the time being, fruits and vegetables not known to be sterile."

Red Purge Begins Here

First action on the special legislative committee's report on subversive activities in Massachusetts was taken today when the International Workers' Order, branded a tool of Soviet Russia, lost the right to conduct an insurance business in this state.

The first radical organization to feel the wrath of state officials following startling revelations of undermining influences by the committee, the International Workers' Order was refused a renewal of its license by State Insurance Commissioner Charles F. J. Harrington.

This action amounts virtually to a revocation and ends for all time the insurance business of the order in the Bay State.

SEES "SMOKE SCREEN"

In making the decision, Harrington pointed out that he had made a thorough study of the legislative committee's report, which charged the International Workers' Order was a Communist organization "hiding behind a smoke screen of fraternalism."

The commissioner ordered the organization to dissolve immediately all branches or subordinate lodges in Massachusetts and to refrain from collecting dues or assessments after Monday.

Harrington recalled that when the order was granted the right to do business in this state it was understood it would not engage in Communist activities, either locally or nationally.

QUOTES BYLAWS

He was satisfied, he said, this pledge had been broken after delving into the investigating committee's data on subversive groups. The committee's report quotes a bylaw of the organization as follows:

"No member of a police force and no professional strikebreaker can be accepted as a member."

"Without exception, the entire program of the Communist party and its fringe organizations is followed by the International Workers' Order," the report says.

"With the Communist party it shares hatred of religion, hatred of American patriotism, building defense of the Soviet Union, the war against capitalism and the campaign to involve American workers in a class struggle for power."

The committee, headed by Senator Sybil Holmes, devoted more than 800 pages of the report to the International Workers' Order.

The report also quotes "The New Order," official publication of the organization, to show that order's members contributed $30,000 to aid Spanish Loyalists against General Franco's army and that some of the order's members were members of the Loyalist army.

PROTECT POLICY HOLDERS

Policy-holders in the organization will be fully protected since they may continue to send their premiums to the New York headquarters of the International Workers' Order.

The annual statement of the order as filed with the insurance department as of December 31, 1937, shows 2971 policy-holders with insurance amounting to $1,114,100 in Massachusetts.

Shipbuilding Jobs to 7500

A boom era that will last two years in Quincy and Bath, Me., was guaranteed today for 7500 shipyard workers.

The windfall of fortune hailed by workers and business men in the two cities came when the U. S. Maritime Commission announced that four 14,450-ton cargo steamers would be constructed at the Fore River Shipyards in Quincy and the Navy Department announced a contract for two new destroyers had been given to the Bath Iron Works.

Officials at Fore River said the contracts there would guarantee work for 3200 employees for two years.

The four cargo ships will cost $10,174,000, and the order is one of the largest sent to Fore River in several years.

The vessels will be assigned to the American Export Lines for Mediterranean service.

Each ship will be 475 feet long, with a cruising radius of 15,000 miles. Quarters for the crew will be the last word in comfort. The speed of each will be 16.5 knots.

Work on the new ships will be started November 1.

The two destroyers to be built at Bath, Me., will be 1600 tons each and the total cost will exceed $10,000,000.

New Labor March Threat

New threats of a labor march on the State House were raised today following the House rejection of Governor Hurley's $10,000,000 bond issue work-relief program.

President John F. Gately of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor, whose council drew up and recommended the money borrowing scheme for the governor, called the legislature's decision an "insult to labor."

"Unless the Senate votes for this bond issue, we'll consider again a march of thousands of laborers upon the state capitol to show the legislators just how we feel about this question," warned Gately.

Should the Senate ratify the House action in distributing the $5,500,000 gasoline tax money to cities and towns a veto by the Governor will result, legislators predicted.

New Clash Strains Soviet, Jap Relations

TOKYO, July 23 (INS)—Another "Soviet invasion of Manchukuo" brought Russo-Japanese relations nearer the straining point today when Tokyo came out with its semi-official version of a clash on the Siberian frontier.

Sixty Soviet soldiers, said a dispatch from Hsinking, Manchukuo, fired on ten Manchu civilians from three patrol boats on the Ussuri River Thursday.

The alleged attack occurred nine miles above Tungmanchen "definitely within Manchukuo" territory. The "civilians" have been missing since.

The Soviet account of the same engagement said two Manchu motor boats "violated the Soviet frontier," and six soldiers landed on the Soviet island of Faingov.

(Then the Manchu soldiers allegedly opened fire on a passing Soviet river cutter, which returned the fire.)

The Ussuri and Amur river boundaries between Siberia and Manchukuo have long been sources of disputes between Tokyo and Moscow.

In spite of new causes of friction genuine alarm over the possibility of war with Soviet Russia was evident throughout Japan today and it became apparent in Japanese government circles as well.

Report Soviets Plan Massing of Fleet

BERLIN, July 23 (INS)—Soviet Russia is preparing a gigantic naval demonstration off the coast of Korea for the presumed purpose of "intimidating" Japan, the Nazi newspaper Der Angriff reported from Warsaw today.

M. Smirnov, Soviet naval commissar, has decided upon "mobilization" of the entire Far Eastern fleet, tele dispatch said.

NAZIS WARN

Vienna: 'Protect No Jew'

VIENNA, July 23 (INS)—Nazi leaders here have threatened further drastic action to purge Vienna of Jews.

Herr Globoenik, Nazi party regional leader in Vienna, declared:

"The Nazi party has ordered the state to clear Vienna of its Jews, but if anything should arise which hinders this task, or if the state fails to act in this matter, the Nazi party will prove it is strong enough to carry through its own point of view."

He bluntly warned Viennese against shielding or protecting Jews, declaring:

"We shall make every effort to make the Jews emigrate, and we are carefully watching those who wish to protect the Jews. Such protection is sabotage, and we shall proceed against these people when I am given the necessary orders."

Globoenik announced special Nazi party commissions will soon be appointed to examine "the political position" of all state officials in Vienna.

Doherty Says Hissers Reds

National Commander Daniel J. Doherty of the American Legion, home for a brief visit, today declared here that the Communists who headed his Columbia University address were not members of the joint conference on education, before whom he spoke, but were "Red" gate-crashers.

Commander Doherty, who defended the ideals of the Legion before the Columbia audience, declared his remarks were "very favorably received."

"I don't believe there were more than 10 hissing," he continued, "and these persons had nothing to do with the summer school."

Will Kitty Forgive?

Brando, Wife May Make Up

Possibility of a reconciliation between Mrs. "Kitty" Brando and her nightclub owner husband, Anthony Brando, was seen by the pretty wife's friends today, following her acquittal in Brookline court on a morals charge brought by Brando.

That the bitter legal tilt might end in peace was based on Mrs. Brando's dropping of a charge of assault and battery against Brando after the court verdict, rendered by Judge Robert W. Frost.

Prior to this Mr. and Mrs. Brando and their counsel held a lengthy conference, details of which were not revealed. It was believed, however, that the parley was the beginning of peace overtures on both sides.

The verdict followed a day of sensational testimony and argument and a bitter quarrel between opposing attorneys.

In making his findings Judge Frost said he was not convinced the evidence showed Mrs. Brando guilty of misconduct with Jimmie McHale, orchestra leader in her husband's nightclub.

JUDGE DOUBTS STORY

The case revolved, he said, on whether the testimony of Mrs. Brando or that of Arthur Tobin, her first cousin and bartender in Brando's club, should be believed.

"I am asked to believe," he said, "that Mrs. Brando, coming out of a nightclub with McHale and Tobin, had the intention of committing the crime with McHale, took him out to her home, knowing that her mother and her maid would be there, and when they got there, went to bed."

"I am also asked to believe that Tobin in the morning walked into the room without any of the doors being locked and without any effort being made to have privacy."

"That is where Tobin does not convince me these things were exactly as he says. The story does not ring true. If I believe Tobin I must believe that Mrs. Brando's mother, Mrs. Mitchell, knew all about it, and I doubt that the mother would allow anything like that if she knew all about it. I find the defendant not guilty."

Mrs. Brando, who a few moments before had been near collapse, rushed to her mother's arms and wept. Shortly after she conferred with her attorney, J. Paul Keefe, and the charge against Brando was dropped.

EPITHETS EXCHANGED

In a bitter argument during the trial Keefe called Brando a gangster, racketeer and, catching Brando smiling, "a laughing hyena."

He declared Brando had threatened to take Tobin "for a ride" unless he testified against Mrs. Brando.

Attorney Herbert F. Callahan, counsel for Brando, denied his client was a gangster, declaring he worked all day as a gardener and operated his club at night. He referred to Mrs. Brando and her friends as "cattle."

$$ End Love Strike

NEW YORK, July 23 (INS)—Hedi Heuser's famous sit-down strike was all for love, but she compromised on cash, it was learned today.

Hereafter, Hedi will rest under the palms of California, forgetting the charms of Rollo K. Blanchard, water meter millionaire, beginning life anew and all that.

It was learned she accepted $10,000 in lieu of a wedding ring and agreed to leave for California no later than today.

Hedi made history in Westchester county in May when she took possession of Blanchard's home in Irvington, N. Y., and refused to leave. She explained that she would not leave until Blanchard married her.

"He loves me," she said. "He will do the gentlemanly thing."

And then she hinted about a stork.

Blanchard kept to his yacht club in Poughkeepsie and swore that she would get neither him nor a settlement, and that if she were going to have a baby he knew nothing about it.

After ten days which drew many tourists to Irvington and spurred Hedi left the Blanchard home to take up quarters in a White Plains hotel.

Now Hedi has signed an agreement which stipulated that for the sum of $10,000 to be paid in monthly installments for three years, she would remain in California. Another $300 was set aside for fare plus $300 for additional expenses.

RENO, Nev., July 23 (INS)—Margot Grahame, screen actress, was in Reno today on a divorce expedition.

Establishing a residence here she will file an action which should make Francis Lister, British actor, a single man again.

'Ex' Costs Wife Bequest

Jewelry, two braided mats and "$25 to start a bank account" were lost by Miss Blanche Y. Gauthier of Salem because she divorced her Marblehead box manufacturing husband, Lester D. Friend, the will of her former mother-in-law, Mrs. Agnes D. Friend, revealed today.

Mrs. Friend, whose will is on file in Salem court, originally left the gifts to Miss Gauthier, but in a codicil struck them out because she "is out of the family." Friend's divorce suit, which claimed his wife was friendly with a Winthrop man, was dismissed in 1934. She later won a decree on grounds of desertion.

NEW YORK, July 23 (INS)—Amid a symphony of cheers and the whistled salutes of nearby vessels, Crown Prince Gustav Adolf of Sweden sailed for home early this morning aboard the Swedish-American liner Gripsholm. With him were the Crown Princess Louise and his son Prince Bertil, and an entourage of 25 persons.

The royal party came to this country to celebrate the recent tercentenary of the arrival of the first Swedish settlers at Wilmington, Del.

The party paused briefly, on the red-carpeted gangplank, to wave farewell to thousands of persons who jammed the flag covered pier. Prince Adolf refused to grant any more interviews, following his radioed farewell to the nation last night.

Berry-Picker Cheats Death

TAUNTON, July 23 (AP)—John Perry, 42-year-old berry picker, thanked a dog, a neighbor, policemen and firemen for being alive today.

The dog located Perry after he became mired, waist deep, in a blueberry patch near his home yesterday. The outcries of the neighbor, who became mired while attempting to rescue Perry, attracted the latter's children, who called police. Unable to reach the pair, police summoned firemen, who pulled them out over ladders.

Perry was treated at a hospital for immersion.

Mountain Music

The Big Issue
As Texas Votes

O'Daniel on the 'Den'

AUSTIN, Tex., July 23—A million citizens stepped into balloting booths today for a showdown on the most unpredictable issue in Texas political history—the potency of mountain music.

With the polls due to close at 7 p. m. weather predictions for continued rain or cloudy weather throughout Texas embarrassed early expectations of a record vote.

Not since the incredible race Blacksmith Bob Williams made in 1901 without ever leaving his forge, or, perhaps the dark horse run of Farmer Jim Ferguson in 1914 has the electorate been so excited by a gubernatorial scramble.

A new personality, W. Lee O'Daniel, converted the campaign into a traveling circus. The fort Worth four broker campaigned atop a sound truck with a blaring hillbilly band and a promise of $30 monthly pensions for the aged—whether they be millionaire or indigent.

STRONG OPPONENTS

Never has the Democratic primary field bulged with such strength. O'Daniel's chief opponents are Attorney General William McCraw, who was re-elected without opposition four years ago; Railroad Commissioner Ernest C. Thompson, proponent of low utility rates; and Tom Hunter, Wichita Falls oil man and three-time candidate.

O'Daniel pecked away at the "professional politicians" in his closing speech last night and asserted he favored the working man. McCraw said he hoped Texas would declare an end to petty quarreling and sordid politics.

Thompson renewed his pledge to industrialize the state, and Hunter said he was eager to slice $15,000,000 from the state budget.

CAMPAIGN BY AIR

Eight others, including Karl A. Crowley, former solicitor for the Postoffice Department and James A. Ferguson of Bell County, kin of Farmer Jim, filled out the even dozen gubernatorial aspirants.

Eight weeks ago O'Daniel was unknown to politics—but a household word to rural radio listeners who, for a decade, had heard his informal chats on a commercial flour program.

To his casual mention that he might run for governor against these professional politicians came a response of 55,000 letters from his radio listeners. He said he took their advice and announced for office.

Swollen Rivers
Threaten Flood

NEW YORK, July 23 (INS)—With considerable damage to property in upper New York State already, additional rain threatened today to increase the danger from swollen rivers along the North Atlantic coast. Millions of dollars in crop and property losses were reported all along the Atlantic seaboard as the sixth day of rain fell. Sullivan and Ulster counties reported more than a hundred motorists marooned in stalled autos, several bridges swept away, and some villages inundated.

Storm Loss Billions

cellars were reported in hundreds of communities and rivers and smaller streams heaved freshet levels.

MILLION CROP LOSS

Howard S. Russell, secretary of the Massachusetts Farm Bureau Federation, put the loss to crops in this state at $1,000,000 thus far.

"How much greater the loss may be, eventually, cannot yet be foreseen," he said.

"Damage to market garden produce, which has already been spotted by wet weather, may just be the beginning."

"Most important effect of the long-continued rain has been to increase the chance of epidemics of fruit and vegetable blight."

"Farmers have been unable to spray their trees or their plants."

"Micro-organisms have had fine opportunity to thrive and spread. They'll take their toll later."

At Windsor, Ct., Dr. E. O. Street, plant expert at the Connecticut state experimental station, said the tobacco crop loss in the Connecticut area would probably amount to at least $1,500,000.

Seek to Return
'Confessor' in Hit-Run Death

Cambridge police today conferred with District Attorney Warren L. Bishop to discuss plans for extradition from Canada of a Nova Scotia farmer who police say made a "conscious confession" of the hit-run death of little John Pettipas, 2, of Sherman street, eight years ago.

In Truro, N. S., Clarence Russell Anderson, 35, and Royal Mounted Police, awaited the official version of the child's death on Friday, June 13, 1930, memory of which drove the former Arlington and Cambridge resident to reveal his role as death driver, according to police.

"I decided to do the thing that I had on my mind for so long," Anderson was quoted as saying. "My conscience has been bothering me for a long time."

Though he could not state the exact year, Anderson gave the authorities an accurate account of the accident in Sherman street, North Cambridge, police said.

Agonized by memories of the accident, Anderson was said by Nova Scotia officials to have described how his auto struck the child in front of the Pettipas home.

Something forced him to drive on without stopping, Anderson was quoted, and Cambridge police were left without clues as they tried to solve the case. Anderson worked in Greater Boston three more years before obtaining a job in a Truro, N. S., croquet factory.

Only a terse comment on Anderson's statement came from Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pettipas, parents of the dead boy. Mrs. Pettipas said: "It took him a long time."

Tunnel Hit-Run
Driver Sought

Police today sought an alleged Summer Tunnel woman hit-and-run driver, who fled the tube in a taxicab after the machine she was operating was involved in a rear-end collision that injured two persons and tied up traffic for 15 minutes.

Requiring hospital treatment were Amendeo DeTullio, 25, of Cummins Highway and James McCann of Russell street, Brookline.

Witnesses said the collision occurred when one machine stalled, halted the next in line and the alleged fugitive, traveling third, crashed the second, which then bumped the first.

Hope Springs Eternal

Hope Dare, known as Dixie Davis' redhead when he was seized on Prosecutor Dewey's

Dixie Davis Quits
Jail to Visit Girl

NEW YORK, July 23 (INS)—Permitted to leave his cell for medical treatment, Dixie Davis, prospective star racket trial witness, was accompanied by detectives to a mid-town apartment and given the freedom of an afternoon rendezvous with Hope Dare, his Broadway sweetheart, the Daily Mirror said today.

Davis, former attorney for the late Dutch Schultz, had afternoons off from jail, about five days each week, by court order and, the Mirror cited witnesses as saying, he has visited Miss Dare at least four times.

RELEASED TO GIRL

According to the story, the officers drove Davis to the apartment shortly before noon and released him, without handcuffs, to the company of Miss Dare.

At the end of the five hours of freedom, Dixie sought a rear escape from the building to avoid inquiries at the door, and apparently was trusted to join the officers voluntarily for the trip back to jail, the Mirror stated.

The couple conversed in a room for an hour before realizing they could be seen from the street and finally drew the curtains. An attempt to gain admission to the apartment for an interview resulted in instructions to the landlady to order the callers away.

During the afternoon, a delivery boy arrived with a tray of frog's legs but was informed the order had been cancelled.

The newspaper said there is speculation whether Davis is being accorded special visiting privileges in payment for information he may have volunteered District Attorney Dewey's office during its prosecution of political overlords.

Hint $4000 Post

A report that Governor Hurley will soon appoint Senator Edward C. Carroll of South Boston to a $4000 post on the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration gained credence today with Carroll's announcement he will not seek a fourth term.

According to rumor, the position will be the only one open until December. There was a report also that if Carroll waits he may be put into the $7000 job of Associate Public Works Commissioner R. K. Hale, whose tenure expires then.

Old Salt
Blames Moon

Out of the days of wooden ships and iron men came today the explanation of New England's week of weeping weather.

"Tropic air? Bah!" exclaimed one old-time mariner who piloted his own three-masted schooner about the Atlantic for countless years. "It's the moon. One brief glimpse through clouds showed it as a tipped crescent—tipped so far it won't hold water."

he said, and must be re-spread, at large expense.

A slight hope of clearing weather tomorrow afternoon was held out by Boston forecasters.

They predicted showers tonight and early tomorrow, but said lowered atmospheric pressure in the West Indies ought to result in a change of wind, sweeping rain clouds from New England.

Official status of this July today, was the fifth wettest in Boston weather bureau history, with more than a week to go.

At 10 a. m., 5.87 inches of rain had fallen this week, bringing the total for the month, thus far, to 7.48 inches.

OLD-TIME RECORD

All-time record for the month was set in Civil War days at plus-12 inches.

The deluge, coupled with a high humidity, dampened spirits as much as it did crops and commuters wondered if umbrellas and rubbers were to be a part of their daily equipment all summer.

More flooded cellars were reported in Dedham and Mann's Pond dam in Sharon gave way, spilling water that tipped up the roadway on Billings street.

Mayor Tobin said he would seek WPA funds to clean out the clogged catch basins in Boston, but thought he'd better wait until it was all over.

State highways were undermined in some spots, but underpass floods were avoided by constant clearing of catch basins.

Cape Cod cranberry growers lamented the fact that the rain had prevented the bees from visiting the plants during the present flowering season.

3d Term Hints Stun Capital

(Copyright, 1933)
WASHINGTON, July 23 (INS)—A gentle but unmistakable hint from the New Deal's "inner circle" that President Roosevelt may be forced "by popular demand" to run for a third term tonight jarred Capital politicians.

It was voiced by Joseph B. Keenan, assistant attorney-general and one of the President's closest advisers on politics.

It followed a charge by GOP National Chairman John Hamilton that WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins had launched the "Roosevelt third term movement" by predicting 80 per cent of relief enrollees would vote for the President again.

Hamilton charged the administration with "seeking to perpetuate itself in power through use of relief funds."

The Keenan hint was voiced during a speech Keenan made in Virginia.

"There is much loose comment today concerning candidates for the Presidency," said Keenan. "The question is asked will you succeed or attempt to succeed yourself. It seems to me that most of this is thinking in reverse. Individuals do not choose to become Presidents of the United States. Presidents are chosen by the people."

Keenan later confided to friends he intended to warn the President's political foes that by opposing his policies they could whip up public sentiment for a third term.

Hamilton, meanwhile, hammered Hopkins for predicting relief enrollees would vote for Roosevelt. He said:

"It looks like the launching of the Roosevelt third term movement. Obviously the Roosevelt administration is seeking to perpetuate itself in power through the use of relief funds."

BUCHAREST, July 23 (AP)—Red roses from President Roosevelt were placed on the catafalque of Queen Marie today as a line of mourners continued through Cotopoi Palace for a glimpse of the body before the burial tomorrow.

First Lieutenant Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., U. S. Reserve Corps, Senatorial envoy-investigator to the Panama Canal Zone.

That could be a likely title for the young Massachusetts colon at Washington who revealed today he will leave within a few weeks for a survey of Uncle Sam's defenses in the vital Panama area.

The junior U. S. Senator, however, will not make the trip as a "junior," he explained emphatically at his Beverly home. 18 Attend Last Rites for Insull LONDON, July 23 (AP)—Samuel Insull, who rose from poverty to rule and lose a $4,000,000 utility empire, was buried today in a simple golden oak casket in Putney Vale Cemetery.

The last chapter in the fabulous life story of the magnate who died at the age of 78, of a heart attack in Paris a week ago, was almost as modest as the first one.

Eighteen persons followed the plain casket to the grave.

The most pretentious wreath was from the National Temperance Hospital in London to which Insull had given $100,000 before the crash.

Harry Gordon Selfridge, American department store owner in London, and his son, Harry Gordon Selfridge, Jr., were among the mourners.

New Pacts Seen Near to Ease Europe Tension

LONDON, July 23 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain was disclosed authoritatively today to have given the German ambassador "certain assurances" of continued British efforts in Czechoslovakia for solution of the Sudeten German minority dispute.

A semi-official account of yesterday's interview between the premier and Ambassador Dr. Von Dirksen before the latter left for Germany said, however, "no concrete proposals were made on either side nor was any new suggestion under discussion."

HINT AT NEW PACT

The German ambassador, it was said, gave renewed assurance of Germany's peaceful intentions.

At Praha British Minister Newton conferred today with Premier Hodza for the second time within 24 hours.

Newton reiterated his government's desire that the Czechoslovak government reach an amicable arrangement with its autonomy-seeking Sudeten German and other minority groups.

Some quarters close to the London government mentioned the possibility of a non-aggression pact among France, Soviet Russia and Germany as a possible way out of the muddle arising from self-government demands of Nazi-supported Sudeten Germans in Czechoslovakia.

Another suggestion was that Germany might approve a four-power plan involving France, Germany, Britain and Italy to work out a solution.

Still another was a reported German willingness to enter immediately a non-aggression pact with Czechoslovakia if the Sudeten problem could be answered.

FRENCH CABINET MEETS

Chamberlain discussed the point with his foreign minister, Viscount Halifax, who returned from Paris conference, on the international situation resulting in Anglo-French reaffirmations of brotherly love.

The European diplomatic situation was discussed today at a two-hour session of the French cabinet.

Premier Daladier reported officially on strengthened relations with Great Britain as a result of diplomatic conversations with Viscount Halifax, during the visit to France of King George VI.

Jap Warship Fires On British Vessel

HONGKONG, July 23 (AP)—The British freighter Leana reported today she had been stopped and searched by a Japanese warship which fired a warning shot across her bow.

The Leana was the first foreign ship to be fired upon during the Japanese blockade of the South China Coast. A British protest was expected.

traffic between Boston night clubs and luxurious Newton hideaways.

NEWTON REFUGE

These vice operators are reported to have taken refuge in Newton following the vice cleanup in Brookline and to have gradually rebuilt the former illicit business smashed by the Brookline probe.

Both Mayor Childs and City Solicitor Barrett refuse to disclose whether their probe of the police department has yet touched upon the alleged vice racket, nor will they confirm or deny a report that they are also investigating illegal Sunday sale of hard liquor.

Newton is without even one hard liquor license, although several cafes have permission to sell wine and beer on weekdays only.

RESIDENTS COMPLAIN

It is known that indignant citizens have complained to Mayor Childs of illegal sale of hard liquors by certain stores on weekday nights and all day on Sunday.

A probe of these charges, it is said, might necessitate the entrance of federal liquor sleuths to check the illegal liquor sales.

Mad Mother Kills Four

their parents, who called police.

Officers rushed to the scene. They found Robert in a nearby bedroom breathing gaspingly through a partially severed windpipe. There was no life in the other bodies. An ambulance raced the unconscious boy to the hospital.

Medical Examiner John V. Gallagher said the mother had cut the throats of all three children and then taken her own life. The razor was found on the bathroom floor.

Robert, police said, must have fought his mother during her frenzied attack and managed to receive a less serious wound than his sisters. He apparently was left for dead by the mother before she slashed her own throat. The boy then must have staggered from the bathroom to the bedroom, police believed.

Cecil M. Miles, the father, an Uxbridge truck driver, was in a state of collapse with friends in Worcester today. He was notified of the tragedy as he worked in Boston. He could give no reason for his wife's actions.

Mrs. Miles, said to have been in a highly nervous condition for the past few weeks, was cheerful enough yesterday morning, her neighbors said.

She drove her husband to Uxbridge, taking the three children with her. Later in the morning she hung out her washing in the yard and appeared in a happy frame of mind.

YD Boys Home From Training

Troop trains laden with units of the 26th Division rolled into the South Station today at half-hour intervals as Camp Edwards at Bourne, Cape Cod, disgorged 8000 soldiers who had completed their annual period of training.

Similar troop movements were witnessed in Worcester and Springfield railroad stations, where Yankee Division regiments detrained for their armories in the middle and western parts of the state.

Tomorrow the third battalion of the 372d Infantry, Negro troops, will leave Boston for Camp Edwards for two weeks' maneuvers in the area vacated today by the 136th Engineers.

4 IN HOSPITALS

There were four soldiers unable to join their buddies on the homeward trek.

They were patients at the camp hospital, one a post-operative appendicitis case and the other three victims of accidents.

The accident cases were transferred to Fort Banks hospital, Wintthrop, and the other patient was sent to the Jordan Hospital, Plymouth.

NEEDHAM REVIEWS WORK

Reviewing the activities of the division on its annual tour of training, Major General Daniel Needham, commanding officer, said the intensive work of the first week in camp compensated, in large measure, for the curtailment of maneuvers by the second week of rain.

He said the men would continue to pursue the "war" proposed for Camp Edwards at their home armories during the next two weeks.

Non-Stop Never 'Stumped'

Knows Neither Fear or Failure

(Editor's Note—Following is fifth and last of a series of International News Service articles on the life of Douglas Corrigan, the amazing "mistake" Atlantic flier.)

By RALPH B. JORDAN

International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1933)

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—To Douglas Corrigan, the smiling broth of a lad who flew the Atlantic "by mistake" in a home-tinkered plane, nothing is impossible. He knows neither fear nor failure.

He has long held the belief, his friends disclose, that "any good pilot, with a sturdy plane and dependable motor, could fly the Atlantic. He proved it.

When Corrigan finished high school in Los Angeles, back in 1925, he got a job driving a truck, but soon made up his mind that truck driving was entirely too dull, and determined to get into aviation, which just then was gaining recognition as a major industry.

Despite the fact that thousands of high school lads had the same idea, he set about to become a flier in the most practical way.

He pestered the president of the Los Angeles-San Diego airline until that official was forced to give him a job in self-defense.

NEVER 'STUMPED'

T. Claude Ryan, who at that time operated the airline and a flying school and later became an aircraft manufacturer, builder of Lindbergh's famous "Spirit of St. Louis," tells of Corrigan's advent into the air.

"The young fellow came near making a nuisance of himself around our Los Angeles field, offering to do anything and everything if we would give him a chance," said Ryan.

"He didn't seem to understand the meaning of the word, 'No.' He was so persistent and determined that we finally found a place for him as a general handy man and made a bargain to teach him to fly in exchange for his work."

"He was a good worker—nothing ever stumped him. We finally transferred him down to our main base at San Diego, where he continued with flying instructions."

When the Ryan concern went into airplane building, a year later, Corrigan became a full-time worker, and did much of the welding work on the early mail planes that pioneered the Pacific coast airway between San Diego and Seattle.

Then came the order from the then unknown Lindbergh for a plane capable of flying the Atlantic, and when the "Spirit of St.

Louis" was finally rolled out of its hangar into the daylight, young Corrigan was one of the dozen builders who proudly approved their handiwork.

GAVE HIM IDEA

It was following Lindbergh's famous hop to Paris that Corrigan ventured his opinion that any good flier, given a reliable plane, could do the same thing, Ryan relates.

All the while, Corrigan was saving his money to buy a plane of his own, at the same time putting his brother Harry through an aeronautical engineering school.

Douglas Corrigan, a restless youngster, left the Ryan plant at a slack time and worked for other aircraft builders around Los Angeles.

Ryan saw no more of him until 1930, when Corrigan flew into San Diego one day in his 1929 reassembled plane and again went to work as a welder in the factory there.

WORKED INTO NIGHT

During his spare time, sometimes ate into the night, generally alone but at times with the help of other factory men, he built the big gas tanks and other special equipment for long-distance flying, and fixed them securely into the plane.

While Corrigan was flying his plane around the country, working out navigation and other long-distance flying problems, he was training himself for some great aeronautical feat, his friends believe.

Often he flew the plane for hours at a time at the foot of its altitude, studying the physical effect upon himself of the rarified atmosphere.

He also determined the effect of going without food, or eating only enough to keep him going, for days at a stretch.

And he never burdened himself with baggage, hopping off for a cross-country cruise in only the clothes he wore, and with only a sandwich or a candy bar to sustain him to the next stop.

And that's the way he flew the Atlantic, with no clothes except a dingy work outfit, and with only some figs or a candy bar and a bottle of water to serve his appetite.

But for a young man who knows neither fear nor failure, what more did he need?

Corrigan's Job To Keep Awake

Douglas Corrigan, who single-handedly conquered the Atlantic, tells here with in his own words of the warm reception given him by astonished Irish government officials who forgave his unauthorized and unauthorized landing at Baldonnel Airport. This is the third in a series of chapters giving for the first time Corrigan's complete, authentic story.

DUBLIN, July 22.—American Minister John D. Cudahy told me he would have to straighten out my landing with the Irish government.

I was plenty nervous as I motored through Phoenix Park to interview the government officials. But my misgivings were unjustified.

Everybody in the government buildings was most kind and thoughtful. I saw the man whom above all I wanted to see, Prime Minister Eamon De Valera.

First of all, he was stern. But when he smiled it was like the sunshine coming through the fog.

He introduced me to his minister for home affairs and asked me a few questions about my flight. I told him the full story. He was profuse in his congratulations.

And, to my surprise, the questions he asked about my machine showed that he, a statesman, knew a great deal about aviation.

ALL IRONED OUT

When he was through interviewing me about my flight, he handed me over to his minister for home affairs who in short order gave me temporary papers, straightening out my landing and removing all of its illegalities.

I asked if I could see my plane which has been sequestered by the officials at Baldonnel airport. My request was readily granted.

But they pointed out that, owing to the action taken by Washington in suspending my experimental license, they could not permit me to fly from Baldonnel.

They told me I could do what I like—except fly my machine.

Returning to Baldonnel I emptied the gas tanks of my plane and told the technicians how to dismantle it for shipment back to America.

I was given full clearance without customs formalities. Nobody could have been more helpful to me than the Irish officials.

Then I could see that newspapermen were beginning to get suspicious whether or not my real intention was to fly to California instead of to Ireland from New York because of a wrongly-set compass.

EXPLAINS MISTAKE

So I took a party of newspapermen and flying experts to the hangar, showed them my compass and explained how my mistake arose.

After that, the question of my clothes came up. All I had was the outfit I was wearing when I landed —leather jacket, flannel pants. Members of the American legation staff bought me some shirts, neckties and a suit of Irish tweeds.

The new clothes looked snappy but somehow I haven't been able to wear them. I feel more comfortable in my flying outfit. Irish pants demand suspenders, something I've never worn.

Regarding my immediate plans, some British airplane manufacturers asked me to visit London for a few days.

My temporary plans are to spend a couple of days in London with American Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy and visit British airplane factories, and then return to America on the S. S. Manhattan on July 29.

My plane has already been shipped from Dublin direct to New York on the Lehigh.

But don't think I'm deserting the old bus. I'll beat her back to New York and she's consigned directly to myself and I'll be there to receive her with open arms. Besides, more credit is coming to her than to me. After all, all I had to do on the flight between the cloud banks was to keep awake.

FORMALITIES WAIVED

The Irish government waived customs fees, charges and other formalities in connection with my plane and shipping her back home.

How that was done is a matter for Mr. Cudahy to explain. That may come under the head of diplomacy, but to me it's the sincere friendship the Irish people have for Americans.

I am told that over in the United States they are arranging to give me the freedom of New York, St. Louis, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Galveston. I know nothing official about that. Therefore, I can't say anything about it.

At the present moment, I am only exceedingly grateful for the extreme hospitality shown to me here. They are treating me as one of themselves, although it must have been generations ago at least that any of our Corrigan's lived in Ireland.

(In the next chapter, which will appear in the Boston Sunday Advertiser tomorrow, Corrigan, the Lindy of 1928, tells of his early days in aviation and his first encounter with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.)

$300,000 Bids Tempt Doug

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER

International News Service Staff Correspondent

DUBLIN, July 23 (INS)—Douglas Corrigan wants to "get away from it all."

After five-days of long distance bombardment by the American and European amusement industry, the young New York-Dublin flier told me today that he was about to break down and accept some of the scores of offers now mounting to an aggregate in the neighborhood of $300,000.

"I'm getting so mad now that I might any day haul off and take some of that money," surprisingly announced Corrigan as he climbed out of bed this morning.

"None of this, though," he said, scornfully showing a list of vaudeville offers totaling $57,000.

BIDS BORE DOUG

"This stuff doesn't interest me enough, he answered it," he said

ruminatingly—"maybe it will be something else."

The only way anyone could have signed up "Wee Willie Winkie," as Dublin has dubbed him now, would have been to offer $200, which seems like real money—not twenty grand, which he told me could only be the name of a horse.

Corrigan is slipping. He consented to buy a new pair of trousers, ostensibly because his old flying pair had worn a hole in the seat—but actually because he is having luncheon today at the country home of Mrs. "Chip" Roberts, wife of the secretary of the Democratic national committee.

BUYS BOYS SIZE PANTS

Then he is buying tea as the guest of the chief of staff of the Irish army, Major-General Michael Brennan.

At the store where he bought his trousers, Corrigan was unable to find any small enough in the men's department. He had to go to the boys' department, where he found a pair for a 16-year-old which fitted nicely.

Corrigan weighs 126 pounds.

I found out today that he has the right to wear an "old school tie," when a man called and said he wanted a message for Corrigan's alma mater—a noted correspondence school.

"Sure," said Corrigan, "I took a course in architecture, but I flunked it."

"That's why I'm a failure today—tell them that."

Shoe, Leather Industries Bright Spots

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

Brightest spot on the business horizon is the shoe and leather industry. Almost daily indications of expansion come to hand. All of which is very good news for New England, especially Massachusetts, which is so liberally dotted with representatives of this all important consumer's goods industry.

The Shoe & Leather Reporter informs us today that recent strength in the leather market has not only been well maintained but in several instances new advances have been made.

Shoe production is holding up well, the same source says, with production of women's lines near a peak and all signs pointing toward a substantial increase in manufacture of men's footwear.

Manufacturers and wholesalers are in a good frame of mind and in some instances reported as urging favored accounts to cover fall needs at present market prices. All of which suggests they see higher prices ahead.

BEWILDERED

The stock market has recently acted as though it were somewhat bewildered by an item or two of depressing news. After having things all its own way for weeks it is not surprising that it should be inclined to stop and take stock when adverse news suddenly appears. For the most part government agencies supplied the discouraging notes. The SEC, with its two utility suits and the anti-trust proceedings against the movie companies.

Another thing that makes for hesitation in the current high state of values in relation to business and earnings. Speculators are aware of the unnatural relationship but are loathe to buck a trend when so many are bullish, and when the public, as represented by odd lot trading reports, is consistently selling on balance. For these reasons, despite the dangerous level of average prices, new rally attempts are expected when the effect of poor news wears off.

STATE ST. NOTEBOOK

The gold stocks are stirring again . . . Homestake and Natoma the two mentioned here most prominently weeks ago act well . . . Especially the latter which is in new high ground . . . Bulolo recommended afterwards is also holding its own . . . And has a rosy 1938 earnings outlook, from what we hear . . . The can stocks moved into a bull market of their own months before the general rally . . . And given half a chance could lead an extension of the upturn.

The English market is acting very poorly . . . Rails have set new bear market lows on the London exchange almost daily for weeks . . . We do not like such a development in connection with Berlin and Tokyo weakness . . . And for that reason, to guard against the unexpected, suggest all speculative holdings be protected by stop loss orders . . . Selling here to protect home holdings is almost always of the most urgent character.

CEMENT OUTPUT

WASHINGTON, July 23 (INS)—Production of Portland cement in 1937 totaled 116,174,708 barrels, 33 per cent ahead of 1936, the Bureau of Mines estimated today. Shipments totaled 113,404,782 barrels, an increase of 1 per cent.

Beauty hints by Arline Gould, every day in the Boston American.

HOURLY PLAY-BY-PLAY IN THE STOCK MARKET

Leading stocks reflected mild buying orders in today's brief session. However, their gains were limited to modest proportions in dull, drab dealings. A few steels, motors and specialties moved ahead fractionally, while aviation and utilities eased a bit.

REA Aiding
In Drive for Recovery

By MERRILL MUELLER

International News Service

Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 23 (INS)—

Little publicized heretofore as a recovery weapon, the Rural Electrification Administration, established to assure the flow of cheap electricity into the rural corners of the nation, today was called into the front line trenches of the war against business recession.

REA Administrator John M. Carmody moved to speed his program, which calls for expenditure of all REA funds, totaling nearly $170,000,000 before the end of the fiscal year.

He revealed that REA power will cost farmers only a cent and a quarter per kilowatt hour, and will be piped into the 5,000,000 American farms that are still without electricity as soon as possible.

More than $40,000,000 already has been allocated since June 30, with $27,000,000 passing from the REA till last fiscal year, Carmody disclosed in announcing new REA plans.

In announcing that the REA program was no longer an emergency measure, Carmody said he would attempt to build up a backlog of projects similar to that established by PWA Administrator Ickes, existence of which permitted a quick start on 1938 spending.

Carmody said he had before him for approval between 300 and 400 projects, which will cost about $100,000,000. He added that he expects another 400 projects to come to the bureau following intensive "pushing" activities by field agents.

Since he does not have sufficient funds to handle all these projects, there will be a large carryover into next year with the possibility that the 76th Congress will be asked for new funds to permit continuation of the REA program.

PAYROLLS DROP SHOWN

WASHINGTON, July 23 (INS)—A total of 140,000 workers were laid off by manufacturing industries from mid-May to mid-June, the Labor Department estimated today. Factory payrolls contracted $1,500,000 a week in the period. Within 12 months factory employment has dropped 25 per cent from the 1937 peak while payrolls decreased 35 per cent, the report said.

Worst of New Deal Seen Over

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University

EAST JAFFREY, N. H., July 23—Being about to sign off for a month's vacation, I have fled to the New Hampshire Hills. And being here, close to eternal nature and to the most level headed people in the world, I begin to see things broadly and in perspective.

In this, my last article of the summer, therefore, I feel like peering into the future from a mountain top. What will come out of the present mess—the regimentation, inflation and "wealth sharing?"

As I look out across the valley, I see Socialist organized minorities, pandering to by political racketeers, see the unorganized majority confused and discouraged, as they watch political magicians pull white rabbits, and announce—when things go well for a while—that "we planned it that way."

We are largely doing unproductive things, wasting time and energy; and meanwhile we are using managed currency and devaluation as a means of drawing on the past savings of the thrifty. We are eating up our capital.

But I feel sure that demagoguery and political quackery will be defeated before long. The Roosevelt depression of '37-'38 has given "social planning" a black eye. Labor now fears conscription. In general, voters do not like coercive regimentation.

The futility of inflation has been seen, both abroad and at home. Organized labor is aware of its threat to real wages.

Sharing the wealth is opposed by the great middle class, including most farmers. Even laborers are beginning to see that it means an end to productive employment, thus driving them into the army of regimented relief workers.

Already, I feel that there is some basis for hope that the worst of the New Deal is over. If I am right, capital and enterprise which are honest and efficient will soon begin to regain confidence.

And that, in turn, means making

TAXES! TAXES! TAXES!

¶ "TAX" comes from the Latin, Tangere, which means to touch. The average man who applauds any tax that touches those of a higher income than himself fails to realize HE is also touched through UNSEEN TAXES.

¶ ONE dollar out of every FIVE that the average man earns goes for taxes directly or indirectly.

¶ On every loaf of bread he buys there are no less than 49 different hidden taxes.

¶ The next time he goes to the corner drug store, whether to buy ice cream or cough medicine, remember the proprietor pays 17 federal taxes, 27 state taxes, 34 local taxes, a total of 78 taxes.

¶ If he owns an automobile he pays four cents on every gallon of gasoline he uses

¶ If he purchases one package of cigarettes daily he pays $21.90 in hidden taxes yearly.

¶ If he buys a new suit of clothes, he absorbs 12 different hidden taxes.

¶ If he pays $400 a year in rent he pays $160 in hidden taxes.

EVERYWHERE THE ALARM HAS BEEN SOUNDED AGAINST THE TREND TOWARD CONFISCATION BY TAXATION. TODAY, BUSINESS, INDUSTRY, EMPLOYMENT AND INDIVIDUAL INITIATIVE ARE THREATENED BY THIS TREND. CONFISCATORY TAXATION IS WIPING OUT BUSINESS PROFITS.

WHEN INDUSTRY SUFFERS FROM BURDENSOME TAXATION THE DEPRESSING RESULTS FALL DIRECTLY UPON THE COMMON PEOPLE.

IF TAXATION IS TO BE FOR THE COMMON WELFARE
IT MUST NOT BE DESTRUCTIVE!

Boston After Dark

By HENRY L. DAILY

The Golden Dome:

Well, the Legislature must prorogue some time and when it does Mr. and Mrs. John Citizen will learn that their electric light bill will have a slight reduction . . . This is going to be No. 1 surprise offered by the Democratic party.

But there will be a No. 2 surprise, also, and the Democrats are going to offer that likewise . . . Bank mortgages on real estate will be reduced one-half of one per cent and Mr. and Mrs. John Citizen who own a home MAY get the benefit . . . We say MAY because nobody knows whether the taxes on real estate will go up or down . . . If certain funds are diverted and city, town and county taxes go up, then John Citizen will lose the benefits of that one-half of one per cent in election year.

And here's a zing . . . Soon after J. Burke Sullivan abdicates as chairman of the Public Utilities Commission (he has announced it for Sept. 1) a new chairman will be named and when he takes office you'll find that one public utility used by most every Mr. and Mrs. John Citizen will be on the increase.

Scrambled Arithmetic:

Recently a national bank examiner completed his delving into the records of a Boston bank and the delving proved somewhat fruitful . . . In running through the bank's mortgage accounts, he found the address of a building where he placed as a lad and discovered that a $250,000 mortgage had been worked on the structure.

Now this appeared to be quite something to the examiner, as his memory of the building was that, at no time in its history would it be anything but flattered at being valued at anything near $250,000 . . . But he went down to it and prowled through the pile where he had toiled 26 years before . . . It had changed little.

Before he completed his examination of the bank he ran the title of the building down and discovered the property had been purchased for only $135,000 by an industrial concern. So he has brought the deal to the attention, not only of the bank, but also his superiors in the national banking department.

Looking Backwards:

"Plenty of changes going about this old town," said Sergeant Frank Gaylor, the old time sporting man, when I dropped in to say hello the other night.

"What do you mean, Frank?" I asked.

"Well, for instance," he replied, "you remember the Grand Opera House on Washington street, South End. Some of America's leading actresses and actors held forth on those boards. Thomas E. Shea was one. Then came along Cora Fayton, 10, 20 and 30-cent shows, and finally it has been turned into a parking space."

"Almost next door was the Old Grand Dime, also known as the Windsor and the Hub. At one time it was a museum on the same type as Austin and Stone's in Scollay square, having all kinds of freaks and curiosities to gather in the dimes."

"Down Washington street was the Old Fromenode De Luxe, the first theater in Boston serving liquor. You then turned into Castle street to the Old Castle Square Theater, which at that time had the only stock company in town. That's a parking space now. They sung operas there also."

"The Hollis Street Theater, famous the world over. Every theatrical star amounting to anything took his or her bow from that stage. Richard Mansfield, Henrietta Crossman, Leslie Carter, in the 'Heart of Maryland', Alexander Salvini, in the 'Three Guardsmen'. Oh, I could name hundreds of them. Now a parking space."

"Remember the late James J. Corbett when he played at the old Globe Theater in 'Gentleman Jim'? I used to go to all the first nights. After the show we would go over to John Kelleher's, who at that time had the finest liquor place in the city. While in there I met Denny Kelleher, the originator of the pivot punch. I do not mean a drink. Denny was one of the great men of the pugilistic group."

"Around the corner was Mahoney's Mahogany Palace and next to this was Tom Early's on Lagrange street, who introduced the first barmaid to Boston."

"Then you would drop into the Old Boylston Beer Garden which afterwards became the Boylston Cafe. Directly opposite on Washington street was the office of John Boyle O'Reilly, the Irish writer and poet, who published a newspaper there."

"The Hotel Cecil, owned by Lotta Crabtree, Clarke's Hotel and the Adams House, all along Washington street, were visited by the old crowd at least one night a week."

"Oh, I almost forgot to tell you about the Boston Museum, on lower Tremont street, next to King's Chapel burying ground. The last show I saw there was William Gillette in 'Secret Service'."

$14,000 Loot In Seized Truck

Curiosity of Cambridge police in a truck moving slowly up Warren street early today led to recovery of $14,000 worth of tobacco stolen Wednesday from a Beverly street, North End, warehouse.

When Officers Timothy Toomey, Edward Kelley and John F. Lint, had started their cruiser after the truck, a chase began along Warren, Hampshire and Binney streets to the Boston & Maine railroad yard off Binney street.

The truck yanked to a stop and two men fled. In the machine the officers found intact the valuable load of tobacco, also a complete set of burglars' tools.

The loot had been stolen from the tobacco company by thieves who cut through the walls from an adjoining building.

Goebbels Bans Fete Address

SALZBURG, Germany, July 23 (AP)—The German minister of propaganda, Paul Joseph Goebbels, arriving here today for the formal ceremony of opening the Salzburg Festival, suddenly cancelled the program.

No reason was given for the cancellation. Instead of opening the festival of plays, first here under the Nazi administration, Goebbels motored to the former imperial castle at Kieffheim near Salzburg.

There he promised the festival committee that he would attend the opening performance of Wagner's "Meistersinger" late today. It was mutually agreed there would be no opening address by him.

They turned off the lights, closed the windows and barred the doors to sympathizers bearing food and blankets.

The strikers, sweating in a room without fresh air, light or food, gave up in disgust and left the building.

Producer Good Friend To Youthful Star

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor International News Service
Copyright, 1938

HOLLYWOOD, July 23.—The best friend Deanna Durbin could possibly have is Joe Pasternak, Universal producer, who has guided her movie career from its inception.

His idea, he told me, is to have

Deanna gradually grow up so that she won't leave her present girlhood too soon and blossom into womanhood over night. Step by step he is putting her in pictures that show her as just a little older and at advanced stages. To Louella O. Parsons carry out this idea he has taken an option on "Unfinished Symphony," an original by Nicholas Lazo.

The story is laid in the East where she is raised by three good friends — a policeman, a priest and a cantor. She learns to sing Catholic hymns and Jewish chants and, at the end, there is a love story. This picture will not be made until next year after "Three Smart Girls Go to U. S. A." and "Sweet Love," so that Deanna will be a whole year older.

Babe, Mize, Medwick in Slug Test

By the Associated Press

The bookies are scared to death about those juicy odds of 20 to 1 they gave on the Reds, 6 to 1 on the Pirates and 10 to 1 on the Red Sox last April. Latest figures have 'em backed down to 5-2, 13-10 and 3-1, respectively. The Washington Redskins figure Jim

Cliff Battles

Abilt from a little Elton College in "Cubana" will take up the ball-carrying slack left by Cliff Battles' pro football retirement. "Wonder what connection, if any, you can find between Dizzy Dean's comeback and Cholly Grimm's heavy-o... incidentally, a lot of the boys will be pulling in their ears when jolly Cholly tells all via the airwaves tomorrow. 'Tis whispered Rogers Hornsby will be back in Baltimore—as manager—come next season..."

Maybe somebody can tell us why Woody English is passing up $1000 plus an almost sure cut of the World Series pot to stay on his honeymoon instead of joining the Reds. It just doesn't add up to this corner. Chuck Klein finally discovered what's behind his batting comeback. "Seems," says Chuck, "the pitchers are just throwing 'em where I'm swinging..."

Babe Ruth, Ducky Medwick and Johnny Mize will put on an apple-knocking contest for a fifty buck prize before tomorrow's game in St. Louis. Our dough rides on the Bam... our idea of a right guy in the fight business is Lloyd Montgomery, the young Arkansas wallflower... although he got plenty of other bids to fight in big towns... sweeter sugar, he passed 'em up to give an old pal a break in a show at Rogers, Ark...

Primo Carnera

Old Primo Carnera, who hasn't heard the Bronx cheer since Leroy Haynes stopped him two years ago, got the Italian version that night when he made his stage debut showing his muscles with a dancing company. Connie Mack will broadcast on Edgar Guest's "I Can Be Done" program next month, to tell about the pennant his As are gonna win in the next two years.

Shore Hero

Saves Two Men, Girl From Drowning

EDMONTON, Alta., July 23 (INS)—Eddie Shore, husky defenseman on the Boston Bruins hockey team, was hailed as a hero today for saving two men and a girl from drowning.

Beatrice Penagally, 16, Howard Davis and an unidentified man were drowning in the Sturgeon River near the Shore farm at Daugh, 12 miles from here, when Eddie Shore heard their cries for help. Running to the river he plunged in with his clothes on and succeeded in saving all three.

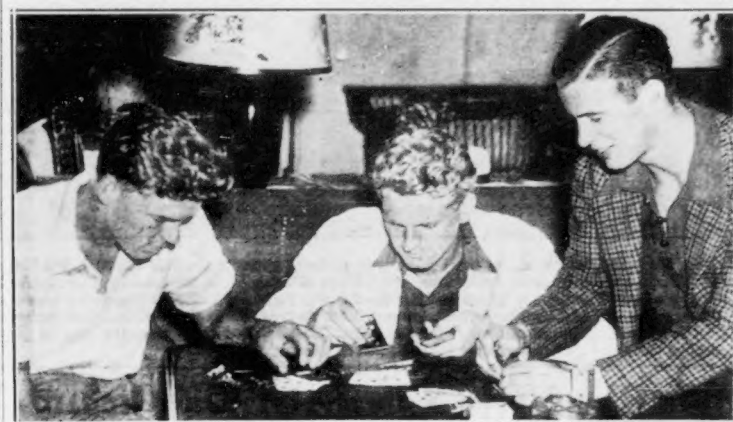

Riggs-Wood in Bowl Feature

By WALTER KILEY

Despite the defaulting of several temperamental headliners, a brilliant field of male performers has reached today's Longwood Bowl quarter-finals.

With a fair shake in weather, five seeded players, three unseeded, will move to the outdoor grass courts which to date have been untouched by the spiked shoes of contenders.

But Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, three times former winner, will be listed among the missing. Top-seeded, he quit the going after being hard pressed to win a second round match from Boston's Henry Kulik. Like Frankie Parker, third-seeded, before him, and Mrs. Dorothy Andrus, who headed the women's lists, he deserted the Longwood cause.

Allison expressed dissatisfaction at being forced to play on the indoor surface, where his showing fell short of expectations.

It also ruined the exciting possibilities of an Allison-Frank Kovacs match, which, had it run to schedule, would have found many of the experts favoring the 18-year-old California sensation.

Today's quarter finals find class literally sprinkled throughout with Bobby Riggs, second seeded and ranked second only to Donald Hodge nationally, meeting Sidney Wood, fellow Californian, Hal Surface of Kansas City, fourth seeded, playing the unseeded Elwood Cooke of Portland, Oregon; Chester Murphy, one of the shy, likeable Chicago twins, taking on Kovacs, the latter seventh seeded, and Charlie Hare, the Englishman and only foreign seeded, matching skill with John Shostrom, little Chicagoan who advanced by virtue of a victory over his younger brother.

Thus, freak weather and all, the tourney directors have accomplished the seemingly impossible. With only four indoor courts to accommodate a mammoth field, the bets have been pruned so that the semifinals can be held tomorrow afternoon and the grand finals on Monday.

The Riggs-Wood duel today has glittering possibilities. The former, national clay courts champion, won his way into the quarter-finals only after a tight comeback squeeze, where in young Archie Henderson, one of the new meteors to flash across the tennis horizon, had Riggs on the verge of tottering.

The youngster, son of a mathematics professor at University of North Carolina, and a finalist with Frankie Parker in the recent Spring Lake tourney, lifted the opening set from California Bobby and led in the final set, only to have Bobby come from behind with a series of soft balling which crowned up his rival's plans.

An illness suddenly attacking Wood gave Riggs a victory over his today's foe on the only previous occasion they met.

The former Wimbledon champion (1934) won the first set a year ago at Southampton, dropped the second, and both were staging a grand third set when Wood nearly collapsed and defaulted.

This headline attraction is listed for 3 o'clock. Previous to it, Kovacs, well backed by many close observers to win the Bowl on his first attempt, will have started his match with Chester Murphy at 1:30.

In between Surface will tackle Cooke, the latter a courageous fighter who threw off the effects of a sick stomach of two days duration to bowl over eighth seeded and formidable Bobby Harmon of California in a straight sets, 6-4, 6-3 third round match.

Barring a major upset, Hare, now a New York broker, should master Shostrom, although the former Davis Cupper was on the threshold of defeat when lanky Gardner Mulloy, graduate of Miami University, several times enjoyed the point over him.

Art Kenney Kicking Up At Hartford

By BILL GRIMES

After his excellent exhibition against the Cleveland Indians, Jack Wilson is no longer one of Jack Wilson is no longer one of the Cleveland Indians' problem children. "Black Jack" Kenney is in perfect shape, and the Oregon boy is primed to take his regular turn on the mound.

Bobby Doerr has shifted his batting stance. Rather a dramatic maneuver in view of the hitting he has been doing of late. Although he got two out of five, Bobby did not look so impressive as formerly.

Jerry Mahan, Brookline's top-notch smoke eater, must be distributing stamps. I received letters from "Yama" and Teddy Quinn. "Yama" is playing the infield for Three Rivers, while Teddy is worrying over his entry in the New England amateur championship.

"Yama" informs me that Jim Fickes, who caught for Dartmouth a few years ago, is behind the bat for his club. A Wilfred Quimet is now a gasoline dealer out on Beacon st. A. S. Brown, Jr., formerly of the Salem Country Club, now has a chauffeur and "The Clam".

The Clam may be exaggerated but the chauffeur is "on the up and up". Who was the S. E. Bishop, Woodland, that played at Winchester last week?

Steve Ryan, who managed a Dartmouth baseball team a decade ago, is home for the week-end to brush up his golf game at Winchester.

His younger days, say along about 1908, Barrai Davison, the well known golfer, was one of the best all around athletes in the Keystone State. Floyd Stahl, the newly appointed Harvard baseball coach, may or may not be a capable mentor, but there must be at least one crimson alumnus who needs a job and who could have filled the vacancy created when Fred Mitchell stepped out of the picture.

Art Kenney, the ex-Holy Cross routhpaw, is acting up at Hartford. He's under the impression that he's better than any hurler on the press' roster and is resenting being sent to a Class A club. Jack Quinn, secretary of the Bees, and Mrs. J. J. are week-ending at Poland Springs. It costs approximately $12,000 to stage a P. G. A. championship.

Washington, July 23 (INS)—Rudy York, homerun-slugging catcher of the Detroit Tigers, has been released from Garfield hospital, following treatment for being hit in the head by Monte Weaver's fast ball in Thursday's Tigers-Sentinel game.

Hospital authorities said York exhibited no ill effects from the blow, which left a two-inch cut on the left side of his head. Rudy suffered a slight concussion but X-rays revealed no skull fracture.

He thinks he's just got the gripe. Promoter Herman Taylor postponed indefinitely the match with Lewis, light heavyweight champ, when notified of Galento's illness and 1044 fever.

DETROIT, July 23 (INS)—For failure to report to the office of the Tigers after being sent home by Manager Mickey Cochrane, Cleto "Boots" Poffenberger, right hand hurler, has been put under suspension without pay.

Galento Ill; Lewis Bout Called Off

ORANGE, N. J., July 23 (AP)—The man variously described as Two-Ton Tony, the walking barrel, Gargantua Galento, etc., today was just plain Anthony Galento, a pneumonia patient at Orange Memorial Hospital, and there was a sudden change in his and his public's diets.

Tony, for the first time in many years, went without his famous beer and cigars. He had instead an oxygen tent and a fluttering squad of nurses and doctors.

His "public," for the first time in many months, went without its Galento caprices, its laughs. It had instead reports that Tony had a fever of 104 and was seriously ill.

Just a few hours before he was taken to the hospital Tony announced discovery of a new blood curdling cry to "scare" John Henry Lewis at their scheduled boxing bout in Philadelphia next Tuesday.

But there was no "scare" in his voice when he protested being covered with an oxygen tent—"Take it off," he urged. "Take it away. I'm not that sick."

The pudgy, colorful heavyweight, recently named Number One contender for Champion Joe Louis' crown, didn't know he had pneumonia, his manager, Joe Jacobs, said.

He thinks he's just got the gripe. Promoter Herman Taylor postponed indefinitely the match with Lewis, light heavyweight champ, when notified of Galento's illness and 1044 fever.

Americus' Magnates Moan

AMERICUS, Ga., July 23 (AP)—The fans cheered when first basemen Ed Hartness of Americus hit a long home run over the wall of the new baseball park here in Thursday's Georgia-Florida league game with Thomasville.

Today, club officials groaned when they counted the cost of that same home run.

They had offered a season pass to the person naming the Americus player who might perform the over-the-wall feat in the particular game.

Two hundred fans picked Hart-

Rudy York Restless Patient

McKechnie Certain Old Orchard Races Off

CINCINNATI, July 23 (AP)—Deacon Will McKechnie's traveling circus ought to bring him a $5000 bonus over the week-end.

When the Reds' front office promised the field boss an extra five grand if the home paid attendance figures got over 450,000, there was no expectation that he would be around to collect with the season only a little more than half gone.

The situation is this: Goal—450,000; figures as of yesterday's whoop-it-doo double-header—433,510 (unofficial); to go—14,490.

If the Reds can't drum up 14,490 cash-on-the-line boys in today's single game and the Sunday double-header with the Phillies, there's something wrong.

If they don't do it now, the Deacon will have to wait until August 8, when the Reds return from an excursion to tangle with the Cubs. That 435,510 figure is just about what the Reds drew all of last year, when they fluctuated violently between seventh and last places and wound up steady in last.

FANS LOYAL

This year they've been giving the fans a roller-coaster ride that has been as good for the box office as it has been bad for high blood pressure. They go out and win a lot of games and you can't sit down in the stands. Then they go out and lose a lot—and you still can't find a seat.

Any number of people will come out to see Johnny Vander Meer. A week ago yesterday some 23,000 set a week-day attendance record while he lost a tight one to the Giants. Wednesday night nearly as many saw him lose another tight one to Boston.

Besides, McKechnie has stacked the deck of other drawing cards. Lots of people want to see Ival Gooden hit another home run. The same with Ernie Lombardi, the big catcher. Go down the lineup and every man has a following.

But the deacon, he says nothing. He's got his eye on another promised five grand bonus, payable when and if the Reds finish in first division.

WINS THIRD STRAIGHT

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—C. R. Fieldcham's Miracle, one of the steeplechase subscription horses imported a year ago last winter, continued his successful campaign at Empire City when he made it three straight victories in the Lincolnale claiming handicap.

Redskins

Hunt for Wilkins

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The world professional football champions—the Redskins—can't find their biggest player—Wee Willie Wilkins, a 270-pound mite of a man.

We need him for the all-star game in Chicago next month, sighed George Preston Marshall, Redskins owner, and we can't find him anywhere.

Marshall has already run down reports that the 6-foot-4-inch tackle from St. Mary's is working in the California mountains, the Caribbean sea, and Mexico. These reports turned out to be just so much unfounded gossip.

Marshall and Ray Flaherty, coach of the Redskins, want to be assured Wilkins will be on hand when the champs start practice August 10 for the all-star game.

AUSTEN LAKE, America's foremost sports writer and columnist, every day in the Boston American.

Old Orchard Races Off

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Me., July 23 (AP)—Jupe Plavins tucked his wet blanket a little tighter about the Old Orchard track today and grand circuit harness racing officials again threw in the sponge.

Today's card, which was to have seen Billy Direct, 134, world's champion pacer, show his wares, was cancelled, the fifth such postponement in six days.

Hoping to salvage something out of the week's washed out program, officials said the "roaring grand" would remain next week for racing Monday and Tuesday, weather permitting, and then move on to Agawam, Mass.

Originally the circuit was scheduled to open at Agawam on Monday.

Babe Didrikson To Wed Wrestler

ST. LOUIS, July 23 (INS)—Mildred Babe Didrikson, brilliant woman athlete whom everyone thought much more interested in sports than in romance, admitted today that she is to marry George Zaharias, Pueblo, Colo., wrestler.

"We're very much in love," she said, "I met George at the Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament last January, and we've been seeing a lot of each other ever since."

Foxx Second In Batting Race

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—Jimmy Foxx, the Boston "strong boy," and Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati's clouting pitcher, "made" the hitting races in the big leagues this week.

Lombardi, ousted from the National League lead a week ago, climbed back to the top during the latest seven-day span, collecting seven hits in 13 chances to hold his .368 average. His teammate, Wally Berger, who led a week ago, dropped to third place with .346, while Ducky Medwick of the Cardinals climbed to the No. 2 slot.

Although Earl Averill retained his American League lead, Foxx, by banging out eight hits in 14 times at bat, boosted his second-place average 11 points to .362, and thereby climbed to within nine points of the Clevelander.

CASE CLIMBS

Newcomers in the leading group during the week were George Washington Case of the Senators, who climbed to tenth place in the American League, and Boston's Doc Cramer, who advanced to ninth place, and in the National League, those Pittsburgh pounders, Arky Vaughan and Johnny Rizzo.

Selections for the Track

BEST-WHITE HOT, 5TH RACE

ROCKINGHAM PARK, N. H., July 23.—On October 19th last year, an obscure thoroughbred named White Hot won a race for $1000 selling platers at Rockingham Park. On November 13, last year, the same horse beat Don Guzman, Holluschickie, Troupier and the like to win a handicap at the Old Rock. Today, the four-year-old gelded son of Sir Greyest-Miss White goes in the $4000-added Granite State Handicap at a mile and one-sixteenth, and I'm picking him to win.

He won six races at that long fall meeting, and last Wednesday he won the Bethlehem claiming handicap for horses valued at $5000 over a muddy track.

FIRST RACE

War Streak, Dorothy Pomp,

Abbott's Lark

WAR STREAK, nosed out by Catchem in his only start of the current season, is a good mudder, and figures to experience scant difficulty here. DOROTHY POMP, a beaten favorite in her last, had little or no chance with the start. ABBOTT'S LARK for the remainder.

SECOND RACE

Flying Victory, Shamtime, Apprehend
FLYING VICTORY and SHANTIME figure pretty much alike. They finished only a half length apart in their last meeting. APPREHEND was beaten by the top pair in the above race.

THIRD RACE

Selmald, Solvit, Briery

SELMALD finished second to Cherry Jam in the Maplewood Stakes run over a muddy track, and he figures to gallop to a field of this caliber. SOLVIT beat ordinary opposition in his most recent start. The same goes for BRIERY.

FOURTH RACE

Victorious Ann, Happy Knot,

Galon Boy

VICTORIOUS ANN is the class of the $3000-$2500 platers listed to perform in the sixth and a good mud runner to boot. HAPPY KNOT is right at the peak of her form.

Harness Marks Due to Topple At Agawam

AGAWAM PARK, July 23.—Although $9 out of 100 sportsmen don't know it, a trotter must race a longer mile than a runner when harness horses invade the domain of the thoroughbred, such as at Agawam, during the Grand Circuit speed carnival opening here next Wednesday for a 10-day whirl.

Running tracks are measured for the mile at the rail. Trotting miles are measured three feet out from the rail. Therefore on such a track as Agawam built for thoroughbred racing, the trotter must race 28 feet further to encircle the mile track than did their galloping predecessors.

That 28-foot handicap is estimated to mean 1/2 of a second when a trotter steps a mile in two minutes.

but, since heavy rains have provided Agawam with a cushion beneath a hard smooth surface, new world marks are expected to be hung up here between July 27 and August 6, when the largest and fastest cavalcade of harness horses ever assembled in New England parades to the post.

The old argument of what would happen if Greyhound was matched with War Admiral or some other thoroughbred is racing merrily since there's no chance of them meeting. Anyway, in the first place, horsemen point out that a runner must have a soft, dug up track, while the trotter uses a smooth, hard surface.

Since Greyhound pulls Sep Palin, a driver weighing 185 pounds and his sulky harness weighs about 40 pounds more, it is argued that War Admiral should carry the same weight or about 205 pounds, on his back to make a fair contest.

It is contended that since a runner is 2 1/2 seconds faster than a trotter, on world records, the thoroughbred ought to be handicapped with that hefty 205 pounds.

Some trotting horsemen insist that Greyhound would trounce War Admiral and make him look sick.

Empire City Meet Finishes Today

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—New Yorkers who don't want to go as far as Saratoga to watch the horses run get their last look at racing for a month today when the Empire City meeting comes to an end with the running of two stakes.

The elder horses, headed by such seasoned campaigners as Mrs. Louis Vign's Rex, and Golden Phipps' Teufel and Felix Spatola's Wise Prince, were scheduled to try conclusions in the $7500 Yonkers Handicap at a mile and one sixteenth.

Charlie Grimm Gets Radio Job

CHICAGO, July 23 (INS)—Charlie Grimm, dismissed as manager of the Chicago Cubs last Wednesday night, had a new job all ready today—as a radio announcer.

Charlie will act as assistant to Phil Fanning, Chicago sports announcer, and as part of his work will "cover" the home games of the Cubs whom he led for six years.

Grimm went to his farm near Gray's Summit, Mo., the day after he was relieved of his managerial duties by owner P. K. Wrigley. There, he said before announcement of his radio job that he was anxious to get back into baseball and was just loafing on the farm until an offer came along.

"I lost my job because the club wasn't going right," he said, "and when the club doesn't win, all responsibility falls on the manager. That's the way it should be."

HUNT 3 WOMEN IN ICE CAVES

GRANTS, N. M., July 23 (INS)—New Mexico's "ice caverns" were being searched today for three women who have been missing since last Tuesday.

Discovery of the trio's automobile, containing their luggage, money and half-eaten lunch, led authorities to believe that they had met with a serious accident in the nearby caves.

Governor Clyde Tingley headed the searching group, aided by state police, CCC boys, and national park rangers. They were armed with ropes and hatchets, the latter to cut gashes in the precipitous cliffs of ice which make the caverns a gigantic natural refrigerator.

The three women were identified by Mrs. Philip Gibbons, of Billings, Mont., whom they were on their way to visit, as Mrs. W. A. De La Forest, of Lexington, Ky., an instructor at the University of Kentucky; Miss Irene Piedalue, 45, of Winchester, engaged in extension work for the University; and Miss Laura Piedalue, 47, a social welfare worker for the Catholic charities of New York. Mrs. Gibbons is a sister of the Piedalue women.

Their automobile had been parked at the point near the caves, 30 miles from here since shortly after that time.

Presence of the money and valuables led to belief that the women had not been molested.

Chief of State Police E. J. House, Jr., who received the report of the abandoned automobile, organized searching groups under direction of the governor.

Japs Fire on Soviet Cutter

MOSCOW, July 23 (INS)—Weighing the already explosive tension between Russia and Japan, a new Soviet-Manchukuoan border incident was reported today from Khabarovsk.

According to the report, two Manchukuoan motor launches on the river Ussuri violated the Russian frontier Thursday by landing on the Soviet island of Faingov.

Six Manchukuo soldiers landed and opened fire upon a Soviet cutter. Russians aboard the cutter returned the fire, wounded two of the Manchukuoans and took all six into custody.

House-to-house collection of number pool bets in practically every section of the eight "villages" comprising the city of Newton impelled Mayor Edwin O. Childs to open his probe of gambling rackets, it was learned today.

His private investigators, it became known, have reported to him that children of high school age in the exclusive residential suburb were patrons of the pool racket as well as grownups.

Raining 'Gators

Charlestown Man Finds One

When Harry Valencia, Charlestown garage worker, woke up this morning and saw it raining again, he figured times weren't normal and anything might happen.

So, he wasn't surprised a bit to find a 30-inch alligator swimming happily in a flooded gutter in Chelsea street, Charlestown.

There was a string attached to the alligator's neck. Therefore Valencia guessed the reptile must be somebody's pet.

He lathered it back of his shop in Chelsea street and notified police who weren't surprised either.

First to come under mayoral scrutiny are members of the local police force who have street patrol details.

More than a score of these have already been questioned by the mayor and City Solicitor James Bartlett relative to their knowledge of the activities, on their respective beats, of number pool bookies.

OFFICERS UNDER OATH

Every patrolman was put under oath when interrogated and his answers recorded on dictaphone records in the mayor's office.

It has been an open secret in Newton for several months past that racketeers from the North End of Boston have joined forces with a Waltham gambling ring to take number pool bets in the Garden city.

A more grave, if less publicly discussed racket has also been spreading unmoistened in the Newton villages, according to well-authenticated reports.

This is the alleged existence of a vice ring, whose male and female principals are said to be openly conducting a nefarious
